

Meeting Setup

1. I know we have 30 minutes scheduled today. Does that still work for you?
2. Before we jump in, do you mind sharing what prompted you to take today's meeting and what would make this conversation valuable for you?
3. That's helpful. I'd like to learn more about your current environment, what's driving the evaluation, and how your team approaches decisions like this. I'll also share how other organizations are solving similar challenges and answer any questions you have. Then we can determine together whether a next step makes sense. Sound good?

Discovery

1. Can you walk me through your current approach today?
2. What challenges is that creating for the business, and if you could wave a magic wand and fix it, what would success look like?
3. Who is driving the evaluation and what role will you play in the process?
4. Who else will be involved in evaluating or approving a decision?
5. Who ultimately owns the budget and final approval?
6. When it comes time to make a decision, what will your team need to see to feel confident moving forward?
7. Aside from us, what other options are being considered, whether that's doing nothing, building internally, or evaluating other vendors?
8. Can you walk me through how a decision for a solution like this typically gets made, from this conversation through project kickoff?
9. Assuming everything went well and we were the perfect fit, when would you ideally like to have something like this in place?
10. If your team decided to move forward with a solution like this, what procurement, legal, security, or contracting steps would typically be involved?
11. Based on our conversation today, what do you feel would be the most valuable next step?
